Part 2 – Creating a User Account

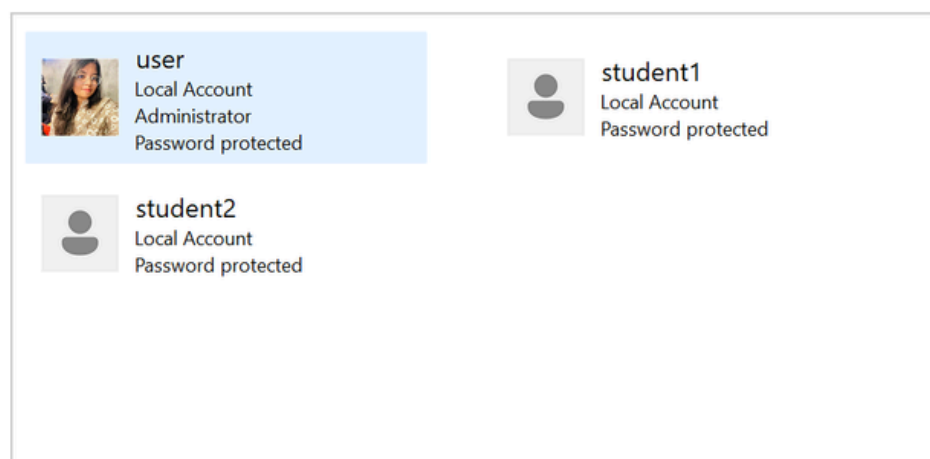

1. Why should normal employees use standard accounts instead of administrator accounts?

Answer: Standard accounts prevent employees from making accidental system changes or deleting critical files. It ensures that only authorized people can change important settings, which keeps the system stable.

2. What risks exist if everyone uses administrator privileges?

Answer: If everyone has administrator rights, a single mistake or a virus can damage the entire operating system. It also increases the risk of unauthorized software installation and data theft.

Part 3-Monitoring System Performance

1. Which process uses the most CPU?

- Answer: In my system, WhatsApp is using the most CPU (0.8%).

2. Which process uses the most memory?

- Answer: Brave Browser is using the most memory, which is approximately 943.5 MB.

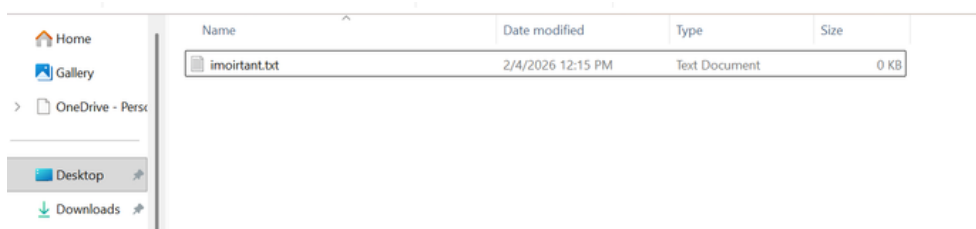

Part 5 – Performing a Basic Backup

1. Why are backups important?

Answer: Backups are essential to protect data from hardware failure, accidental deletion, or cyber-attacks like ransomware.

2. What could happen if backups are not performed regularly?

Answer: If backups are not done regularly, important documents and files could be permanently lost, leading to a waste of time and money to recover them.

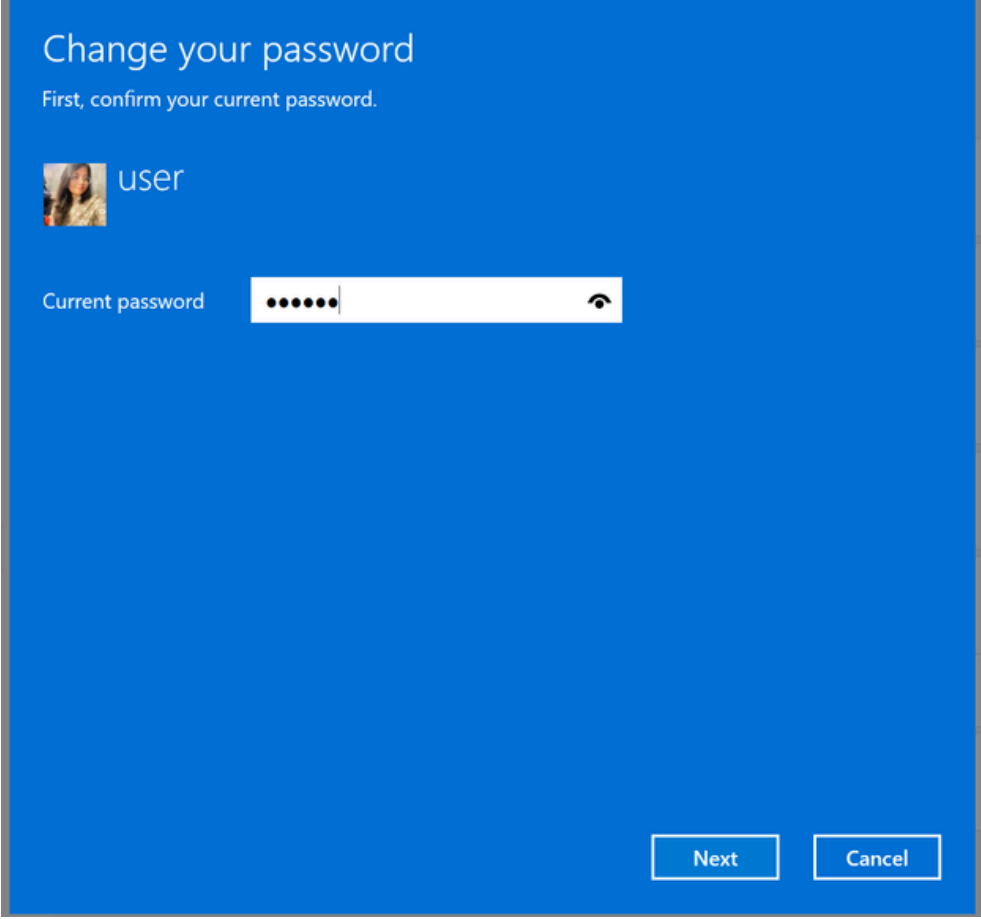

1. Why should passwords be complex?

- Answer: Complex passwords are hard to guess and protect the system from unauthorized access or hacking attempts.

2. What risks occur if weak passwords are used?

- Answer: Weak passwords can be easily cracked, which may lead to data theft, privacy loss, and system damage.
